FROM THE PRINCIPAL

Due to a very busy week, I have not been able to put the full newsletter together, so it will go home on MONDAY. However, here is a short summary page for families in the meantime.

Please do not forget our Book Week Day on Tuesday. Parents are welcome! Unfortunately I will not be present due to a funeral, but Nita and Lynette have offered to run the day. It looks like it will be lots of fun! Please try to dress up if you can.

*Regards, Clare Edwards
Acting Principal*

STUDENT OF THE WEEK AWARDS

Student Name

Marceline McKenzie

Marceline has taken on the role of a Reading Champion with great enthusiasm; she encourages those who she reads with and takes joy in their successes. Well done, Marceline, your hard work and love of reading have helped you move into this role really well! Keep it up!

Student Name

Evelyn Fitzgerald

Evelyn is a kind and helpful student. She willingly helped younger students during the snow play day. She is a talented artist. Her Clay-mation work is excellent. She is also a very good cook, evident when measuring ingredients, making and decorating fairy cakes in our science unit. Thank you Evelyn for always trying your hardest, demonstrating the value of "We are responsible."

Student Name

Jed Keevers (absent previous assembly)

Jed has produced some very good work this semester. He is concentrating harder and finishing tasks such as his "fractured fairy tale" and treasure map. He has a friendly nature and is kind to his classmates. I have been pleased with his attitude to work so far this term. Well done Jed for demonstrating the value of "We are Learners."
