Students of the WeekPREP/1

Hello everyone,

Congratulations to all students for their amazing Writers Festival writing pieces. You should all be very proud of your efforts in writing a story on the theme of 'Lost'. Thanks to the families who came to support their children at the festival evening.

To round off what was already a busy week, P-2 students had a wonderful day last Friday at the Junior Athletics Day.

"Learning Together, Succeeding Together"

This week's class awards go to Jyeran Whitford for his positivity, and to Zavier Austen for his persistence and help seeking. Well done to these students!

This week in the Prep/1 classroom:

Reading:

This week in reading, we will be learning to make inferences about how characters may be feeling in the narratives we read using clues in the text and our own knowledge.

Writing:

Students will be writing a story using finger puppets made with the help of their grade 6 buddies, as a prompt.

Maths:

In maths, we will continue learning about sharing, using real-life examples as a basis for multiplicative thinking. We have started our swimming lessons this week and everyone has been super excited about getting in the pool. Well done to everyone for having a go and doing their best.

Have a great week everyone!

Caitlin and Harry

12A

Hello and welcome to week 9 of Term 3. Awards this week went to Xander Gray, Seth Geddes and Jasper Melville. Xander's was for his awesome collaboration skills when working in a small group, always explaining his thinking to his peers. Seth's award was for the way he read his story 'Zayn the Snake' aloud to the class when practising for the Writer's Festival. He was able to read with great volume and expression. Jasper's award was for his resilience when practising reading his story 'Jones and the Cave' for the Writer's Festival. He was nervous at first but was able to pull through. Well done to all students!

"Learning Together, Succeeding Together"

This week in reading we are looking at making inferences by using text clues, along with our background knowledge to make inferences about different texts.

In writing we are working on writing just like Bob Graham to develop contrasting characters for our own stories.

In Maths we are working on the concept of 'times as many' and arrays to assist us with our early multiplication and division skills.

Finally, we continue swimming for the next 2 weeks. Please make sure that your child is able to dry and dress themselves in a timely fashion. In addition, we would love if each child had their own pair of goggles to wear.

Thanks and have a great week!

Eliza Cunningham, Brenda Power, Hunee and Lisa

The students of the week this week are:

3/4A – Isaac Whitfield for the enthusiastic way in which he embraced our figurative language unit. He wrote great poems using personification and alliteration. Love your ideas, Isaac.

Edison Stapleton received an award for his positive attitude and amazing resilience when life throws him a curve ball. Well done Eddie for coping so well during a challenging week.

3 / 4 B – Sam Davis for demonstrating the TAPS values of consistently doing his work and being respectful towards everyone in the classroom.

Dartanyan Milner for his excellent use of figurative language in both his personification and alliteration poems.

We will continue to explore the use of figurative language in writing and will be writing a series of short poems to help consolidate our understanding and use of figurative language. Children will also work independently to find and explain figurative language during independent reading time.

Last week in maths we launched a maths problem solving project. Students are designing a 3D obstacle course, which involves applying their understanding of area, perimeter, number fact fluency, addition and multiplication. We are really looking forward to sharing the finished products next week.

It is another busy week in the 3 / 4 unit. This Thursday students will be involved in a science incursion on Forces and Energy. On Friday we are going to Bairnsdale to the Forge Theatre to see a live performance of The Librarian. We will be leaving school at 10 am and returning at around 2.30 after lunch and a play at the All-Abilities Playground in Bairnsdale. Please make sure the permission slips are returned to school as soon as possible.

Thank You.

Have a great week.

Mrs Ali Mackie, Mrs Jennie Vines and Alyssa

Hello 5/6 Parents and Guardians

Students of the week are as follows:

Alex Jones: For trying hard and not giving up. Alex is also making a big improvement with his handwriting.

Fay Whitford: For being a positive and caring class member and encouraging others (particularly in volleyball).

TJ Baxter: For his super efforts reading his literature circle text, completing his writer's festival story and practising his times tables.

Lukah Beveridge: For setting a high standard in literature circle discussions and completing her writer's festival piece to a high standard.

This week in reading students are focussing on drawing conclusions and making inferences. Students have been encouraged to use the clues in the text they are reading to figure out the intended meaning. Students are also using this skill when reading texts with dialogue in order to work out who is speaking to whom.

We are writing procedural texts during writing time and our topic is "Gambling advertisements should be banned." Students have been studying the features of a persuasive text such as using emotive language and rhetorical questions and the structure of these texts and how to plan.

In maths we have been looking at three dimensional shapes, learning correct names, drawing them and looking at particular features such as the number of edges and vertices.

"Learning Together, Succeeding Together"

We have just begun our physical science unit about circuits and switches. As an introduction, students have drawn a cross section of a torch and how it works. Next students will explore different arrangements of a battery, wire and bulb that will make the bulb light up.

Thank you

Carolyn Smith, Alec McPhee, Bree, Jannet and Hannah

FRENCH

Bonjour,

This week, I gave an award to Griffin Reggardo, for showing a great understanding of how to conjugate our -ER verbs, on our first lesson on the concept. Well done Griffin!

This week, students in grades Prep to 2 continue to learn our words on fruits. We will practise making full sentences to say which fruit we eat.

Students in grades 3 and 4 will continue their work -er verbs and sports.

The following students tried particularly hard last week:

P-1: Maverick, Tyler, Ethan and Matilda

3-4A: Willow, Charlotte, Isaac and Fletcher

3-4B: Declan, Laila, Sam, Griffin, Maddy and Zoe
Bonne semaine à tous!

ART

Hello all,

This week our grade p-4 continued on investigate 'lost,' via their art. When learning to appreciate what we have in our environment we can become more connected to what could be lost forever. They created a double framed drawing of their connection to nature with an animal or plant on one side and what it needs for survival on the reverse.

The grade 5-6 classes created a hybrid figurative sculpture from modelling clay based on the work of Australia's famous artist, Patricia Piccinini. Many of the children had heard her name and recognised some of her work. This was an opportunity to dig deeper into the technical details of how the sculptures were formed.

During technology the 1-2 class had an opportunity to code using 'Scratch' while the p-1 class made their mazes from rolled newspaper. 3-6 continued with coding projects that they had started last week.
